BORN IN ITALIAN SPORT

We started in Montebelluna, Treviso, Italy – a region renowned for its sports shoe manufacturing – in 1978 – during one of the most exciting eras of European sport. From basketball arenas to Serie A stadiums, our footwear appeared where competition was at its highest level. Athletes trusted Kronos for durability, comfort and unmistakable Italian design.

Today we turn the heritage into modern movement – footwear shaped by sport and refined by Italian design.

Born in Italian sport and shaped through decades of competition, our shoes are designed to move naturally with the body. Lightweight construction, breathable materials and flexible outsoles create footwear built for the rhythm of everyday life

THE KRONOS MOTION SYSTEM™

Every Kronos shoe is built around a simple principle: comfort through movement. The Kronos Motion System combines cushioning, ventilation and flexible construction technologies that support the foot as it moves – step after step.

CUSHIONING

Adaptive Memory Foam and Shock-Absorb™ cushioning soften impact and adapt to the shape of the foot, creating a smoother step and reducing fatigue during long days of movement.

EVERYDAY COMFORT

UltraWalk™ outsoles and lightweight EVA midsoles create smooth heel-to-toe transitions that reduce pressure and make extended time on your feet easier.

ADAPTIVE FIT

Sock-Fit construction, EasyWear™ entry systems and Bungee laces provide a flexible fit that adapts to the foot while allowing quick and effortless entry.

FLEXIBILITY

FlexMotion™ outsoles use deep flex grooves and segmented rubber zones that bend naturally with the foot while maintaining grip and stability.

VENTILATION

AirFlow mesh and Flyknit uppers allow heat to escape and air to circulate, helping keep the foot cool and dry even during extended wear.

BUNGEE LACES

Quick-lacing system with elastic or toggle cords. Speed laces eliminate tying and allow rapid adjustment for a snug, consistent fit.

TIMELINE

1978

We started in Italy. Kronos was founded to build footwear for athletes who compete seriously. Italian design, durable materials and performance-first construction defined the brand from the beginning.

1984-1988

We stepped onto the European basketball stage. Dražen Petrović - one of the greatest European players ever and among the first to reach the NBA - wore Kronos during the rise of modern European basketball. The Petrovic Top became one of our most recognizable basketball models.

1987

We entered professional football. Kronos became sponsor of Venezia Mestre, bringing Italian-designed football boots onto the pitch as Italian football was becoming the most competitive league in the world.

Early 1990s

We introduced advanced football boot construction including reinforced leather uppers and new stud configurations designed for the faster pace of modern European football.

1991

We hit the court with Olimpia Milano, one of Europe's most historic basketball clubs. Players stepped onto the floor wearing our first red Kronos basketball shoes - built for speed, grip and durability and wore them until 1995.

1996

We built a boot for a Ballon d'Or winner. Kronos developed the Parma-style football boot associated with Hristo Stoichkov - World Cup 1994 Golden Boot winner and one of Europe's most explosive attackers.

1997

We appeared in Serie A attacks. Roma striker Abel Balbo wore the Kronos "Roma style" football boot - built for powerful forwards during the golden years of Italian football.

1999

One of the era's most feared strikers wore Kronos. Gabriel Batistuta - Batigol - appeared in our boots during his prolific years in Serie A, widely considered the toughest league in world football at the time..

2001

We continued on Serie A pitches with a testimonial boot created for Maurizio Ganz, known to fans as El Segna Sempre - the striker who always scores.

2004

We returned to the basketball court. Kronos red basketball shoes appeared again with Olimpia Milano, reconnecting the brand with Italian basketball culture.

TODAY

HERITAGE IN MOTION

"Today we continue to build on this legacy - combining Italian sport heritage with modern design to create footwear and apparel made for movement, culture and everyday life. Over the years, we've expanded the product range to include footwear for various sports, such as running, basketball, and futsal catering to a broader athletic audience."
